s. S. Crandell Kills his Mother-in-Law and Stepdaughter, Mortally Wounds bis Wife, and 'then Commits Suicide—A Quarrel About the Control of his Wife's Property. TROY, Dec. 19 .- In Ballston this morning Sylvester S. Crandell shot his wife, sten-daughter, and mother-in-law, and then killed himself. Crandell, who was formerly a lawyer, was engaged in the real estate and brokerage building in this city. Until a few years ago be had a partner, Cassius E. Buikeley, who was also an attorney, but who is now, it is said, a commercial traveller for W. & J. Sloane at Nineteenth street and Broadway, New York sity. Mrs. Crandell was Bulkeley's divorced wife. She was Julia Stone, the daughter of Samuel Stone, a paper collar manufacturer, who died leaving a very large estate to his widow and daughter. Bulkeley introduced Crandell to his wife, and their subsequent actions were the cause of a great deal of com ment. Finally Crandell and Bulkeley dissolved partnership, Bulkeley and his wife separated. and the latter went West, where she obtained a divorce. It has always been claimed that Crandell instigated the separation and divorce.

About two years ago Crandell, who had led Mrs. Bulkeley to believe he was worth $50,000, married the divorced woman, and they lived with Mrs. Crandell's little daughter and Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Crandell's mother. Trouble began soon after the honeymoon, when Mrs. Crandell and her mother found that Crandell had not told the truth about his financial con-dition. Crandell had extravagant 'tastes, and when in funds spent his money lavishly. On the occasion of the State G. A. R. encampment here he put a $500 note on the bar of the Troy House with the remark, "No Grand Army man can buy a drink here to-day," Matters went paid little or no attention to business. He frequently quarrelled with his wife and motherin-law because of their refusals to furnish him Early in the spring the Crandells purchased the Col. B. F. Baker house in Ballston, where

He took an active part in politics, and in 1866 was the Republican nominee for Sheriff of Washington county, but was defeated by his Democratic opponent. Soon afterward he was appointed a deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, and what his term expired he moved to Troy. He was twice married. His first wife, a native of New Bedford, Mass., died here about twelve years ago. She was an invalid, and when she married Crandell had quite a large sum of money, which he spent for her. Beveral persons who had conversed with Crandell of late express the opinion that his reason was unsetled. He certainly acted strangely at times.

NO CUSTOM HOUSE CHRISTMAS.

Collector Magone Has Made 1,500 Gerenment Employees Very Unhappy

There was a sonorous howl in the Custom House yesterday when it was announced that Collector Magone had decided to keep the Custom House open on Monday next, though the Post Office, the Sub-Treasury, the banks, and the exchanges celebrate Christmas on that day. Collector Magone says he can find no authority Collector Magone says he can find no authority in the Federal statutes for shutting up on the day after Christmas, and that without an order from Secretary Fairchild open it is.

The 1.500 employees in the departments feel personally aggrieved, just as they did when Mr. Magone kept open shop on election day, a proceeding unheard of in the annals of the Custom House, The Custom House brokers also sent up a wail. They can't do anything they say, with the banks and everything shut, and yet they must be on hand. Any duties collected will have to be kept in the Custom House over night instead of going to the Bub-Treasury according to law.

The Monday after New Year's the Collector also regards as his lawful prey.

A Royal Chess Board in Dispute

A unique chess board, made for the King of Spain, and presented by him to a titled dignitary, and which has been played upon by many royal personages, will be brought into the Supreme Court, Circuit, Part I., on the first term da, of the new year, and the Judge and a group of lawyers and a jury will try to discover whom it belongs to now. The board is valued at $5,000. It is made of Venetian iniaid work, and the chess figures are of ivory, exquisitely iniaid. The board is now in the down-town vaults of a big trust company for safe keeping, bending the sectlement of the dispute as to its ownership. Several months ago the board was on exhibition at Tiffany's. Gen. Wissman, who claims the board, sent it there for sale. Deacon John T. Howard of Plymouth Church saw the board one day, and declared that it was his. Tiffany & Co. recently secured an order from the Supreme Court relieving them from all responsibility in the matter, and directing Deacon Howard and Gen. Wissman to settle the dispute between themselves. at $5,000. It is made of Venetian iniaid work.

The New York and Besten Air Line. Boston, Dec. 19 .- The officers of the New York and Boston Rapid Transit Company say that the death of Gov. Bodwell, who was President of the corporation, will have no effect upon the company's plans. Ex-Gov. J. Gregory Smith of Vermont is Vice-President, and he becomes acting President of the company. Within a month several wealthy men, it is said, have become identified with the project for building a direct line between Boston and New York, and one of the last acts of Gov. Bodwell was to urge one of them to accept the Presidency at the annual meeting of the stockholders in January. Gov. Bodwell's investment in the enterprise amounted to about $30,000.

Manufacturers Give Notice that they Will Abundon the Union on Jan. 1. Tenement house eigarmaking is about to be redstablished in this city. At a meeting of the Cigar Manufacturers' Association on Wednesday night it was decided that on Jan. 1 the manufacturers would throw the Inter-national Cigarmakers' Union overboard and declare their shops free. Years ago the workmen began a fight against the tenement house cigarmaking system and got bills passed pro-hibiting it. The bills proved to be unconstitutional, but the fight was continued, and two years ago it resulted in a peace.

The Manufacturers' Association contains all but three of the largest shops in the city. Two of the three who are not in the association never employed tenement house workers. The other firm, Kerbs & Spies, stood the brunt of the fight, but in January, 1886, they entered into an agreement with the International Union to do away with tenement house work, pay union prices, and use the blue label of the union on their goods. The cigarmakers at that time were divided into two factions. The Internationals were an open trade union, and the other faction—the Progressive Cigarmakers—were Knights of Labor.

A month or two after Kerbs & Spies signed the agreement with the Internationals the Manufacturers' Association made a similar one with the Progressives. It was understood in both cases that the unions would use their power throughout the city and country to prevent the production of cigars for less than union wages, and also to urge workingmen to buy only those cigars which bore the union labels. The manufacturers say now that the inability of the unions to keep these promises is the cause of the present trouble. On Nov. 30 Kerbs & Spies notified their men that in thirty days they would terminate the agreement.

"The causes which led to our action," said Mr. I. Hasa, who spoke for the firm, yesterday, "were the result of the system, and were not caused by any quarrel with the union. We kept our agreement with the men and they kept theirs with us as far as they were able, but small tenement house workers continued to exist and the unions did not protect their labels.

but small tenement house workers continued to exist and the unions did not protect their labels.

"The unions made efforts to stop the sales of their labels and also to prevent their use, but they were not successful. We could not get a cligar made for less than $7 a thousand, and it was impossible for us to sell any at a profit for less than $25 a thousand. For these reasons, and also because the labels were to be had by any one, trade went into other channels, Great non-union factories grew up outside of the city—in Binghamton, Baltimore, and Pennsylvania—and drew off the trade from this city. There was a thirty day clause in our agreement, and on Nov. 30 we notified the men that we would terminate it in that time. The union at once refused to furnish us with labels unless we would let them put an inspector in our factory. We refused to allow that and declared the shop a free one."

Mr. Haas does not expect any trouble because of the new order of things. The cigar-makers do not view the matter in the same way. L. Jablinowski, Secretary of Union No. 90, was found in 158 East Fourth street. "It is nonsense." he said, "to talk about helping the operatives by redstablishing the tenement house workings. The whole move is one to reduce our wages. I do not think that we will submit."

and he would see that Santa Claus got it. So Mamile wrote the letter, and her brother carried it to the Post Office and put it in without any stamp, and was satisfied."

At this revelation all the young Lyonses looked as though the very mildest punishment for their crime that could reasonably be expected was imprisonment in a dungeon, and Miss Mazgie Lyons totally disappeared under the bedciothes, save a small wad of tow-colored hair on the pillow, and the very scraggy remains of what was once a white poodle dog, and is still the sworn friend to everybody of the blood of Lyons, felt called upon to interfere and offer hostilities in a series of sharp and insulting barks. TWO BURGLARS CAUGHT.

The Police Becognize Them Both as Old-

John Haubert returned home at 415 East Pifty-ninth street at 2 o'clock yesterday after-noon, and found that the door of his rooms on the second floor had been broken open, He found two men in possession. One of them aimed a blow at his head with a chisel, and the burglars dashed down the stairway. Hau-bert followed them two blocks, and caught one of them. Policemen Kirby and McInerny eaught the other. The prisoners had jewelry caught the other. The prisoners had jewelry and other valuables to the amount of $50, two bank books, and a deed of property, all of which were identified by Mr. Haubert.

The prisoners gave the names of Charles H. Wilson of Brooklyn and Harry Lawson, no home. The police say that Wilson is known as Stump Finnagan, and that he has served a number of terms for theft and burglary. Harry Lawson, the police say, is Paddy Byron, who was concerned in the robbery of Post Offices in Jersey City, Elizabeth, Astoria, and New Haven. He has served three terms in prison for burglary.

A set of burglars' tools was found on the prisoners. Justice O'Beiliy held them in $500 ball each in the Yorkville Court for trial.

Tora to Pieces by Centrifugal Force. John McCaigherty was torn to pieces by centrifugal force in the dye house of the Bar-bour Flax Spinning Company in Spruce street Paterson, yesterday afternoon. His clothing caught around a shaft which was revolving with extreme rapidity. The first his shopmates knew of the accident was when they were sprinkled with his blood. When they were sprinkled with his blood. When they looked up and saw what had happened several of them fainted. Only the clothing and a part of the trunk was clinging to the shaft. Thirty feet distant lay a foot. A broken thigh bone lay twenty feet in an opposite direction. In another place lay the head, partly crushed. Some of the workmen were struck by parts of the dismembered body.

McCaigherty w. a well-built man, aged 38. In perfect health. He had left his wife and two children at the dinner table only half an hour before. It was a part of his duties to look after the belling, How it happened that he got caught by the shaft will never be known. His wife hurried to the factory as soon as she heard of the accident.

Weigand would probably weigh, after a good dinner. would probably weigh, after a good clinier, about 115 pounds. There was a ripple of laughter as the big hatter squeezed himself into the witness chair. The assault occurred at 18 Chyrsile street on Dec. 6. Weigand keeps a saloon, and he and the hatter quarrelled. The hatter made some disparaging remarks on Weigand's vocal powers, and sat on the saloon keeper. The latter bit the hatter's finger. The case was dismissed.

CITIEEN BRUNNER'S RETURN.

Locked Up in a German Prison and Only Freed as an "Act of Grace." Among the passengers on the French steamer La Bretagne, which arrived yester-day, was John A. Brunner, the American citizen who was imprisoned in Alsace-Lorraine by the German authorities for alleged non-performance of military duty. He left this country last September to visit his sick father at Schorback. Brunner had been there but two weeks when he was summoned to appear be-fore the authorities in an adjoining town. Thinking he was only to be questioned regard-ing his citizenship, he responded, and was sen-tenced to pay a fine of 600 marks or go to prison for forty days, on the charge of evading tenced to pay a fine of 600 marks or go to prison for forty days, on the charge of evading military duty. Brunner decided to go to prison, knowing that on the payment of the fine he would be immediately required to serve his three years in the army, where his case would have been almost beyond remedy. His relatives did not discover his whereabouts for several days, as he was not permitted to write. Brunner's father took immediate measures to bring his son's case before the American Legation at Berlin. With much red tape, and after thirty-four days' imprisonment, the German authorities reluctantly gave up their prisoner, and he was a free man again. Brunner was not satisfied, and asked upon what ground he had been released. This is an extract from a letter sent him by the Secretary of the American Legation in answer to his inquiry: "As regards the treaty of Feb. 22, 1888, to which you aliade, and the other treaties relating to naturalization concluded in that year between the United States and the German States, it is necessary to inform you that the German Government refuese to apply their provisions to Alsace-Lorraine, declaring that those treaties do not extend to that territory, and, holding such view, will regard your release as an act of grace rather than of justice, a view not assented to by the Government of the United States under the circumstances is believed to be largely due to the fact that you had enabled the legation to inform the German Government that it was your purpose to return to the United States immediately upon your discharge irom confinement. Brunner said that he was not allowed to see any of his friends or inform his relatives of his whereadouts. He found himself lested in a small room with a half dozen "State" prisoners, whose principal cause of offence was crying "Vive la France" Mr. Brunner instanced the case of a man who was sentenced to eight months in prison for simply wearing a beit of red, white, and blue around his waist.

OBPEV OROCERIES BY WEIGHT

Present Aspect of the Matter that is to Come Up Before the Aldermen To-day. The meeting of the Board of Aldermen today will probably be one of far more than usual interest. Alderman Farrell will report the ordinance, originating with the Retail Grocers' Protective Association, to provide for the sale of green produce by weight instead of by measure. The large wholesalers of Washington Market will represent one phase of the opposition, and the smaller wholesalers around Gansevoort Market will represent another phase.

On the one side stands the Retail Grocers' Association struggling for fair dealing all round. Mr. F. B. Thurber, though not a member, gives the association his support. A number of wholesalers, headed by Mr. Barnett, are for a compromise upon barrels and orates of a legal measurement and bags to hold a given dry measure. Others oppose both expedients on the ground that no regulative law in city or State can touch the real cause of the irregularity, which lies with the producers, who live in many different States.

To test the effect of the proposed ordinance, a reporter bought at Robert B. Nooney's a small measure two quarts of potatoes. It weighed 4% pounds. The proposed ordinance, a make thirty-two quarts, or a bushel, weigh sixty pounds. Therefore, on the basis of even quart measurement, the grocer gives away, under the present system, tweive pounds out of every bushel of potatoes.

A number of very large grocers were interviewed yesterday upon the proposed ordinance, Mr. Thomas W. Ormiston of Austin, Nichols & Co. considered weight a very pretty thing, but not by any means practicable. Mr. Joseph Park of Park & Tillord said that no doubt many green groceries now on the measure list could very properly be sold by weight. The present proposition he did not think would pass. Mr. Lewis Wallace of Francis Leggett & Co. said the tendency of the age was toward weight. Mr. Merrall of Acker, Merrall & Condit lavored weight as far as concerned the merchandise he was acquainted with. Things were moving that way so rapidly he thought the time would come when everything in groceries would stand upon that basis.

The Brooklyn Board of Aldermen unanimously rescinded yesterday the ordinance that vegetables be sold by weight. of green produce by weight instead of by measure. The large wholesalers of Washington Neille Leonard, who led little Emma to the houses of the prisoners, turned State's evidence. The shoemaker asked for a further examination, and his case was set down for this afternoon. The cotton broker waived further examination, and was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail.

A Twist in American Opera Litigation. In the suit of S. Skiddy Cochran and Annie Lee, chorus girls, against the American Opera Company and its stockholders for salary, Judge Andrews, in the Supreme Court, has overruled the demurrer. He says:

the demurrer. He says:

I am of the opinion that this action is not brought in the interest of the plaintiffs and other creditors, but in the interest and at the instigation of one or more of the defendants to hinder, delay, and embarrass and wear out the creditors who have sued or may see individual stockheiders. For this reason and some others I have been inclined to think that the demurrer should be sustained. Mr. Justice Patterson, however, having previously the same questions before him in a similar action, has reached the opposite conclusion, and I somewhat reluctantly follow his decision.

NEWS OF THE BALL FIELD.

STRANGIAL AND COMMERCIAL The Ameteur Championship Treable Ex-

championship, says:

"At a meeting of the Amsteur League, held in the early spring, it was decided to arrange a schedule of six games, and the club winning the best four games should be adjudged the amateur champions and awarded the control of the sound to th amateur champions and awarded the trophy.
Three games were scheduled to be played on the grounds of each club. The first was played at Bergen Point, Wednesday, June 1, and rethe grounds of each club. The first was played at Bergen Point, Wednesday, June I, and resulted in a ten-inning tie game, score 3-3, which was subsequently rescheduled for and played at Bergen Point. Wednesday, July 20, resulting in favor of the home club, score 3-2. Two more games were played at Bergen Point, Aug. 31 and Sept. 14, and were won by the same club. They had therefore won three games.

"Of the games played at Staten island, the home team had two tie games and one victory to their credit, and notwithstanding the fact that the Islanders had already played off a tie game with Bergen Point on the grounds of the latter club, without receiving any consideration whatever in the way of gate receipts. I offered the manager of the Bergen Point toam one-half the gate receipts if he would bring his team to Staten Island, play off the tie games, and thereby decide the championship; but he most emphatically refused to accept. It may be peculiar to the general characteristics of the Bergen Point management, but it is, nevertheless, a strange fact that the Staten Island; team were never advised as to the intention of Bergen Point to refer the matter to Mr. John M. Ward for an opinion.

"In an interview held with Messrs. Spalding Bros, these gentlemen express themselves very decidedly as being unwilling to confer championably honors upon either club, claiming that according to agreement neither club was entitled to it, and that the tie games would have to be played and an honest victory achieved before they would present the trophy, notwithstanding the opinion of John M. Ward. This will sufficiently explain that the Bergen Point Athletic Club are not entitled to and have not been awarded the amateur championship for 1887, and will not be until they play and win one of the tie games as above noted."

Manager Clinton has taken counsel in the matter, who informed him that Nelson will have to play in Manchester or nowhere, unless the Manchester association assents to his playing in some other club. The case will be carried before the Arbitration Committee at the earliest possible moment, but in the mean time word has been sent on to New York for Mr. Clinton to engage another short stop equality as good and prominent if possible, so that the club will not be weakened in that position in the event of Nelson's case going against the local management."

in the greatest need of his services. The managers of the several polo clubs in the Metropolitan League recognize the fact that unless steps are taken to prevent it the same trouble over players and salaries will exist in polo as in base ball.

There was a long talk over the salary question by the club managers at the meeting yesterday, and it was finally agreed that only one price should be paid to players until such time as an increase shall be agreed upon. This is similar to the great "Day salary limit" in base ball, but, unlike the base ball limit, it will be successful. The reports of those present tended to show that the game as a winter sport promises a great success. ises a great success.

NEW YORK COCKS WIN.

A Big Cocking Main Fought Just Over the Connecticut Border.

The first of the season's big cocking mains was fought on Sunday night and yesterday morning just over the boundary line between New York and Connectiont. It was between feathered warriors from the two States, and the New York birds won. The conditions of the match were to show fifteen cocks a side weighin between 3 pounds 4 ounces and 5 pounds 2 ounces each between it pounds 4 ounces and 5 pounds 2 ounces each, and fight all that matched in the scales for $100 each battle and $1,000 the odd fight. Eleven pair fell in, and seven tremendous fights were had. New York taking the first battle a losing only the second.

The first pair of cooks—the heavy weights—were out out and besled for the opening fight. Betting was heavily on Connection's 5 pounds 2 ounces brown red.

The $190 to $80 offered on the brown red went to $100 to $40 as the betters saw the pretty pyle tiring. But he came again and throated the brown red in I minutes 20 seconds, and the first victory was scored for the metro-

SECOND FIGHT.—The feather weights were fought next. New York sent in a dominick and Connecticut a black red. It was another raturing battle. The black red str-tched the dominick dead at his feet and gave a shrill crow of triumph, in exactly 6 minutes. This made that the connection of the connecticut against a New York bird. The New York cook won after a terrible battle in 13½ minutes.

Connecticut backers again made a favorite, this time at 550% to 30½ of a 4-pound 5-ounce pyte against a New York dominiok of the same weight. The pyte was killed in 3 minutes. Score—New York, 3; Connecticut, 1.

In the fifth fight a New York black red weighing 4 pounds 1 ounce, killed a, Connecticut blue red 3 ounces heavier, in 10 minutes. The sixth fight was won by a New York black red, weighing 5 pounds, against a Connectent spanses scaling 5 pounds 1 ounce. Time, 18 minutes. The seventh and odd fight was between two 4 pound 5 ounce cocks a New York pand a Connecticut blue red. Scatting was $100 to 850 on New York.

Tobogganing.

The toboggan slide at Washington Park, Brooklyn, will be opened to-day. Several improvements have been made on the slide since last season. The Nassan Athletic Club will celebrate the opening this evening by attending in a body.

A new and improved slide is being constructed at the Polo grounds, and, with the two elides of last season, will be opened to the public in a few days, Saw Francisco, Dec. 14.—Fielder has received a letter from Spalding informing him that he will play in Chi-cago or nowhere else. Federy remarked: "Well, I suppose that settles it. But I may food tham. California suits me, and I may be seen in one of the uniforms of the California League next season." Jerry Denny wants to get the captainty of a California team and play here hext season.—Chicago Tribune.

nominal. The volume of trading was the smallest recorded on any day this year. There was very little to influence the market, and the dulness was so intense that even the board room professionals seemed reluctant to do anything. The London market for American securities showed a firm tone, despite the war discussion and the weak markets for Continental securities.

The heaviest trading was in Reading, and that stock, with Richmond Terminal and New England, closed materially lower. The trading in Reading was influenced by the measures which the employees of the company have taken to reorganize their labor association. and also by theories as to what the relations would be between the company and its employees after Jan. 1. One thing is certain, namely, that the policy of the Reading Company toward its employees has been such tha it is difficult to imagine that they can find good reasons for serious differences with the company. None of the Granger stocks reflected the fact that the new reduced rate schedules go into effect to-morrow. From the demand for the Granger stocks in the loan department of the Exchange it seems likely that the immediate effect of the new tariff has been discounted. The weakness of New England was apparently due to the fact that the stock was neglected. In the last hour the traders endeavored to relieve the dulness by hammering several of the leading stocks, and to their operations must be charged the decline in Richmond Terminal as well as in other stocks. In the early dealings Oregon Transcontinental was a feature, being more active than for some time, and developing a good deal of strength. The other specialties were, as a rule, neglected, and apparently in consequence of such neglect Manhattan Hall-way closed 3 went, lower.

In the Unlisted Department the dealings were unusually light. Cotton Oil Trusts sold at 29%; Chicago Gas Trusts at 29%; Chicago and Atlantic beneficiary stock at 7; Ringston and Pembroke at $2; an odd lot of Western National Bank at 95, and Sutro Tunnel at 20 cents per share. In consequence of the raiding referred to, the closing was at about the lowest prices of the day; still the efforts to depress prices did not impair the firm undertone of the market.

Said to be More than 100 Years Old and Mrs. Margaret Huhn, who lives in two small rooms on the ground floor in the rear of 20 Monitor street, Williamsburgh, is said to be more than 100 years old and destitute. Grocer Leitz reported her condition yesterday at the Graham avenue police station. Last week he received a latter from her son, in which the latter said he wanted her to come and live latter said he wanted her to come and live with him at 2.290 Second avenue. New York. A reporter found the old woman cowering over a little fire in a small stove. The room smelled like a tomb, and drops of moisture stood on the wall.

"My seen wants me to move over to his house," she said, "but I den't want to. He lives up stairs, and the tramping up and down would kill me. I sm now a hundred years old, and have not got many more days to live."

"That's more than she has said in a long while," interjected one of the other tenants as the poor old woman wragted her shawl about her bead, and allowed her head to sink on her breast."

"We will take care of the poor creature." the tenant added, "and do what we can for her. But her son ought to be notified.

The police have notified the son, and have also acquainted the Charity Commissioners with her condition.
